A Profile of Those Who Have It

“(They) conceal what they feel and what they know (Proverbs 12:16, 23). They esteem knowledge and plan how to use it in achieving their objectives (Proverbs 13:16; 14:8, 18); they do not believe everything that they hear (Proverbs 14:15); and they know to avoid trouble and punishment (Proverbs 22:3; 27:12). In sum they are shrewd and calculating, willing to bend and torture the limits of acceptable behavior but not to cross the line into illegalities. They may be unpleasant and purposely misleading in speech but are not out-and-out liars (Joshua 9:4; I Samuel 23:22). They know to read people and situations and how to turn their readings to advantage. A keen wit and a rapier tongue are their tools.” Ziony Zevit
